

THE SUMMIT

Over 70 delegates will be selected from across the G20 countries. As soon as they become official delegates they will start interacting through an online discussion.

During this stage, they will learn and gather opinions from fellow young people in their own countries and exchange ideas with the rest of the delegates in four Task Forces:

Skills and Education for the 21st Century

Entrepreneurship and Self Employment

Future of Work

Sustainable Economy

On August 2018, the delegates will arrive to Argentina for the Y20 Summit. During five days they will exchange ideas with specialists, debate and create consensus around the suggestions of young people for the G20 leaders.

Two main outcomes are expected: a final position paper establishing the vision and actions suggested by the youth and +20 viable social innovation initiatives and projects that the delegates can carry out in their home countries once they are back.

With the 2018 Y20 summit we, the young people of the G20 countries, aim to send a message: not only we have ideas, but also we are committed to act and change our reality.

We are here to shake the present and build the future.

OUTPUTS AND OUTCOMES

POSITION PAPER

After the debates and discussions, all delegates must reach consensus to generate a single position paper that discloses the vision and suggestions of young people from across the G20 countries regarding the Task Forces topics. The position paper will be handed over to the authorities of G20

SOCIAL INNOVATION PROJECTS

Delegates will work to create projects addressing some of the most pressing challenges regarding the Y20 Task Forces topics. These projects will be a commitment with youth action. They will need to find allies and partners to implement the projects in their home countries once the summit is over. They will have the support of the Y20 community and potential sponsors.

More than 20 social innovation projects will be carried out across the G20 countries to extend the impact of the summit.
